SAN FRANCISCO—California quarterback Joe Roth, who was hospitalized at the UC-San Francisco Moffitt Hospital since last Thursday has been discharged to go home.

Roth's condition remains serious and he still is under the care of physicians at the UCSF Cancer Research Institute.

The 21-year-old football player has been undergoing tests and treatment at UCSF since December, when it was discovered that he was suffering from cancer, but he went on to make appearances in the Hula Bowl in Honolulu and the Japan Bowl in Tokyo before returning to the Bay Area.
